LEARNING TARGET

I can analyze how Anne’s relationship with Peter changes her perspective, use specific lines from the play as evidence, and compare the play’s portrayal of Anne with her March 29, 1944 diary entry.

01

DO NOW

Write privately for 2–3 minutes. You do not have to share personal details aloud.

3 MIN

Think of a time a new friendship changed how you saw a problem, a place, or yourself.

What changed, and what caused it?

REVEALS

YOU TRY

Peter teases Anne with her old school nickname, “Mrs. Quack Quack.” Anne snaps back:

“You are the most intolerable, insufferable boy I’ve ever met!” p. 715

PERSPECTIVE CHANGE TRACKER

Act II, Scenes 1–2 · pp. 749–766

TRACK THE CHANGE

PERSPECTIVE

how a person sees things, shaped by who they are and what they live through

CONFIDANT

a person trusted with private thoughts and feelings

DYNAMIC CHARACTER

a character who changes in a meaningful way

As you read, record a SHORT line with a page number. Then explain Anne's BEFORE and AFTER thinking. A strong row proves a perspective change, not simply something that happened.

EVENT: Anne goes to Peter's room. ≠ CHANGE: Anne begins to have someone she feels understood by.
