

In Spite of Everything: Tone, Mood, and the End of the Play

The Diary of Anne Frank, Act II, Scenes 3–5, pp. 766–778 · Standards 8.T.SS.2.a · 8.T.T.1.c · 8.L.V.3.c · 8.T.SS.1.c

ESSENTIAL QUESTION

What is the difference between tone and mood, and how do the playwrights set them against each other in the final scenes of the play?

LEARNING TARGET

I can analyze how diction creates tone, explain how events and audience knowledge create mood, and explain how the contrast between them begins to develop theme.

THE DISTINCTION · POST IT, KEEP IT UP ALL PERIOD

TONE = the attitude expressed by a speaker or writer. MOOD = the feeling or atmosphere created for the audience. DICTION → TONE. TONE + EVENTS / STAGING / AUDIENCE KNOWLEDGE → MOOD. The sorting question all period: “Whose feeling is that, the speaker’s or the audience’s?” PRATHER

★ LEAF ACTION STEP · PLANNED SCHOLAR THINK-ALoud

When: after you model map Row 1, before partner release (27–31). Moment: Mr. Frank, p. 777. Protocol: 30–45 sec silent think → one scholar: First I... Then I noticed... So I decided... Because... → a second scholar builds / revises / challenges → release. Press, don’t answer: “What diction made you choose that?” · “Why that word instead of another one?” · “Whose feeling are you describing?” · “What does the audience know?”

MILESTONES ALIGNMENT · BRIEF

No separate essay today. The map already rehearses argument: claim = the tone word you choose, evidence = the diction, reasoning = why that diction supports that word, evaluation + defense = the starred strongest contrast and why. Trait 1: focused idea. Trait 2: relevant evidence + elaboration.

RUN OF SHOW · 80 MINUTES · A PLANNING TARGET, NOT A FANTASY SCRIPT

0–5	Timed Do Now · rainstorm sentences (independent)	p. 1 · Box 01	Slide 2
5–10	Go over the Do Now · tone vs. mood · bridge to the play	p. 1 · Box 02	Slide 3–5
10–23	Context · read the final scene aloud (pp. 777–778) · silence · “hold both”	—	Slide 6
23–27	Model map Row 1 · hopeful / defiant / naive	p. 2 · Row M	Slide 7
27–31	★ LEAF scholar think-aloud (p. 777) → second scholar builds/revises	p. 2 · purple strip	Slide 8
31–50	Partner reading · Chunk 1 (pp. 766–772) → Chunk 2 (pp. 772–777) · Rows 2–4	p. 2 · Rows 2–4	Slide 9
50–55	Go over partner work · star the strongest contrast · park THEME ideas	p. 2 · ★ box	Slide 10
55–66	Transitions: mini-lesson + 3 relationship items	p. 3 · Box 04	Slide 11
66–74	Exit ticket (independent, protected, collected)	p. 3 · Box 05	Slide 12
74–80	Theme guesses · preview Day 3 · collect · buffer		Slide 12

Running long? Shorten transitions first. Never cut the play, the map, the LEAF think-aloud, or the exit ticket.

WHAT CHANGED FROM PRATHER (AND WHY)

Prather’s reading order is kept exactly: final scene first, then partners read the earlier pages in two chunks. Prather’s 30-minute grammar and peer-review block is cut to 11 minutes (mini-lesson + three relationship items from Prather’s own choppy paragraph) so the reading and analysis stay protected. The full paragraph rewrite and peer review can go home (Slide 12).

PREP CHECKLIST

- ☐ Print the packet single-sided: the exit ticket comes off p. 3, and p. 2 (the map) stays with scholars
- ☐ Chart paper or a board corner titled THEME (stays up for Day 3)
- ☐ Post tone and mood definitions where they stay up all period PRATHER
- ☐ Seat partners for 31–50
- ☐ Pick your think-aloud scholar + a backup
- ☐ Visible timer · play flagged at p. 766 and p. 777
- ☐ A plan for keeping p. 2: folders, or collect packets and hand them back on Day 3

PRATHER SEGMENT → THIS EDITION (READ IN THIS ORDER)

1 · Teacher reads first Prather pp. 97–101	Scene 5, pp. 777–778 (PDF pp. 77–78), from “[It is again the afternoon in November, 1945...]” to the end: Anne’s final voice-over and “She puts me to shame.” Prather’s “p. 101” line is p. 778 here.
2 · Partners, Chunk 1 Prather pp. 86–92 · news + hope	Scene 3, pp. 766–772 (PDF 66–72): the stolen bread, the invasion news, the apologies, and the first half of Anne’s voice-over, through “...we are paying him all that money!”
3 · Partners, Chunk 2 Prather pp. 93–97 · fear + final morning	p. 772 → top of p. 777 (PDF 72–77): from “Wednesday, the second of July...” through Scene 4 and Anne’s voice-over that ends “...because some day I hope...”
Projecting the PDF?	Act II printed page = PDF page + 700. p. 776 has Anne’s live line “I still believe, in spite of everything...”; the voice-over version is p. 778.

PASSAGE KEY · CHECKED AGAINST THE UPLOADED PLAY · ACCEPT ANY WORD THE DICTION DEFENDS

Row 1 · model p. 778	Anne’s final voice-over: “In spite of everything, I still believe that people are really good at heart.”	Tone: hopeful / defiant (“in spite of everything,” “still believe”). Mood: devastating. Mr. Frank has just told us Anne did not survive Belsen. Gap: she insists people are good; we know what people did to her.
★ Think-aloud p. 777	Mr. Frank: “It seems strange to say this... Anne was happy in the camp in Holland... out in the sunshine and the fresh air that she loved.”	His tone, not Anne’s: tender, wistful, bittersweet (“strange to say,” “she loved”). Mood: heartbreaking. We know where the camps led.
Row 2 p. 772	Anne’s voice-over after the invasion: “I have a feeling that friends are coming... Maybe I’ll be back in school by fall. Ha, ha!”	Tone: optimistic, playful. Mood: uneasy, heartbreaking. We already know from Scene 5 that she never goes back.
Row 3 pp. 774–775	Anne to Peter: “Look, Peter, the sky... What a lovely, lovely day! Aren’t the clouds beautiful?”	Tone: hopeful, peaceful, tender. Mood: tense, ominous. The phone, no workers, “So we just wait here until we die.”
Row 4 p. 777	Anne’s voice-over as the door breaks: “Good-bye for a while... some day I hope...” (voice stops abruptly)	Tone: calm, hopeful, pleading. Mood: devastating. “For a while” vs. what we know; the crash and the cut-off voice.

Also strong: p. 776 Anne, “I still believe, in spite of everything...” right before the cars · p. 776 Mr. Frank, “For the past two years we have lived in fear. Now we can live in hope.” · p. 772 “I have often been downcast myself... but never in despair.”

MISCONCEPTIONS → CLARIFY (AFTER THE SCHOLAR TALKS)

1 Mood becomes tone: “Anne’s tone is sad because the scene is sad.”	“Whose feeling is ‘sad,’ Anne’s or ours? Show me Anne’s actual words. What attitude do THEY reveal?”
2 Tone word with no proof (“hopeful”).	“What exact word or phrase made you choose hopeful?”
3 Same word for both (“hopeful / hopeful”).	“What is Anne expressing versus what is the audience feeling because of what we know?”
4 Column 4 repeats Columns 2 and 3.	“The last column isn’t asking you to name them again. It asks about the RELATIONSHIP. How do they pull against each other?”
5 Vague words: good, bad, sad, happy.	“Can we be more precise? What KIND of sad? What KIND of hopeful?”
6 Premature theme: “Never give up.”	“That sounds like advice. We are not solving theme yet. First prove what the contrast is doing.”

BRIGGS CHECKS · PARTNER WORK

1 Tone: “Whose feeling is that?” · 2 Diction: “What exact word or phrase made you choose that tone?” · 3 Mood: “What does the audience know or experience here?” · 4 Contrast: “Why does that make the gap between Anne’s tone and the mood stronger?”

WHEN A SCHOLAR STRUGGLES

“Talk me through how you got there.” → “What did you notice first?” → “What part are you sure about?” → then clarify if you need to.

MOREHOUSE · SAME PACKET, SAME ENDPOINT

Built into the universal packet: three pre-flagged moments with page numbers on the map, chunk page ranges, a completed model row, the word bank sorted hopeful / mixed / heavy (Prather’s scaffold), and the hopeful / defiant / naive strip. The bank gives words, not answers: scholars still prove every word with diction. Transition families are printed on p. 3 with the comma rule (Prather’s reference-card scaffold).

PACKET PAGE 1 · BOX 01

GET THEM HERE Packets on desks, page 1. Slide 2 up. Timer set to 5:00 and visible.

SAY WHILE DOING (pointing to Sentence A, then B) “Alright, look here. You’ve got five minutes. Same event, two completely different sentences. I want you thinking about what changed and which words caused it. Work silently first.” Start the timer.

SCHOLARS DO Read both sentences, then write in the response box for the full five minutes.

CHECK Circulate. Look for scholars who name words (“bullied,” “kept... company”), not just “one is scary.” When you see a word circled or quoted: “Good. Put that on your paper.”

IF STALLED “Read me the verb in Sentence A. Now the verb in B. What does each one make the rain sound like?” Let them do the noticing.

MOVE ON WHEN The timer hits 0. Don’t extend it; the debrief is where the teaching happens.

TRANSITION (Slide 3) “Alright, pencils down for a second. Both sentences are about the exact same thing. So what changed?”

DAY 1 · Anne + Peter DAY 2 · Tone + Mood DAY 3 · Theme + Legacy DAY 4 · Entering Night DAY 5 · Writing Synthesis DAY 2

IN SPITE OF EVERYTHING: TONE, MOOD, AND THE END OF THE PLAY

The Diary of Anne Frank · Act II, Scenes 3–5 · pp. 766–778

NAME

DATE

CLASS

LEARNING TARGET

I can analyze how diction creates tone, explain how events and audience knowledge create mood, and explain how the contrast between them begins to develop theme.

01 DO NOW

Work silently on your own for the full five minutes.

5 MIN

SENTENCE A

“The storm bullied the windows all night.”

SENTENCE B

“The rain kept the whole house company.”

Same event. What feels different about the two sentences? Which words create that difference?

MY RESPONSE

02 TONE + MOOD TOOL

Whose feeling is that: the speaker’s or the audience’s?

TONE

the speaker’s or writer’s attitude
Ask: What attitude do the words reveal?

MOOD

the audience’s feeling
Ask: What does the scene make the audience feel?

DICTION

deliberate word choice

CONTRAST

an important difference placed together to create meaning

DICTION → TONE · TONE + EVENTS / STAGING / AUDIENCE KNOWLEDGE → MOOD

SAME GROUND, DIFFERENT JUDGMENT · CHOOSE THE WORD YOU CAN DEFEND FROM THE DICTION

HOPEFUL expects good things to come

DEFIANT refuses to give in, even against something powerful

NAIVE innocent; doesn’t fully see how bad things are

TONE + MOOD WORD BANK · USE IT, OR USE A MORE PRECISE WORD OF YOUR OWN

HOPEFUL / POSITIVE

hopeful · optimistic · encouraged · determined

UNCERTAIN / MIXED

cautious · uncertain · reflective · uneasy

HEAVY / NEGATIVE

fearful · tense · ominous · devastating · hopeless

PACKET PAGE 1 · BOX 02 + WORD BANK

DAY 1 · Anne + Peter

DAY 2 · Tone + Mood

DAY 3 · Theme + Legacy

DAY 4 · Entering Night

DAY 5 · Writing Synthesis

DAY 2

IN SPITE OF EVERYTHING: TONE, MOOD, AND THE END OF THE PLAY

The Diary of Anne Frank · Act II, Scenes 3-5 · pp. 766-778

NAME

DATE

CLASS

LEARNING TARGET

I can analyze how diction creates tone, explain how events and audience knowledge create mood, and explain how the contrast between them begins to develop theme.

01 DO NOW

Work silently on your own for the full five minutes.

5 MIN

SENTENCE A

"The storm bullied the windows all night."

SENTENCE B

"The rain kept the whole house company."

Same event. What feels different about the two sentences? Which words create that difference?

MY RESPONSE

02 TONE + MOOD TOOL

Whose feeling is that: the speaker's or the audience's?

TONE

the speaker's or writer's attitudeAsk: What attitude do the words reveal?

MOOD

the audience's feelingAsk: What does the scene make the audience feel?

DICTION

deliberate word choice

CONTRAST

an important difference placed together to create meaning

DICTION → TONE · TONE + EVENTS / STAGING / AUDIENCE KNOWLEDGE → MOOD

SAME GROUND, DIFFERENT JUDGMENT · CHOOSE THE WORD YOU CAN DEFEND FROM THE DICTION

HOPEFUL expects good things to comeDEFIANT refuses to give in, even against something powerfulNAIVE innocent; doesn't fully see how bad things are

TONE + MOOD WORD BANK · USE IT, OR USE A MORE PRECISE WORD OF YOUR OWN

HOPEFUL / POSITIVE

hopeful · optimistic · encouraged · determined

UNCERTAIN / MIXED

cautious · uncertain · reflective · uneasy

HEAVY / NEGATIVE

fearful · tense · ominous · devastating · hopeless

ASK "Same event. What is different?" PRATHER Take 2-3 scholars.LISTEN FOR A feels violent, threatening, angry; B feels cozy, calm, comforting. The rain didn't change; the words did.ASK "What word in Sentence A creates that feeling?" Press toward bullied. Then: "And in B?" → kept... company.IF INCOMPLETE Scholar says "A is just negative." → "Show me the word that made you say that."SAY WHILE DOING (Slide 4, point to Box 02) "Good. The event didn't change. The word choice did. That word choice gives the speaker an attitude. That is tone. Tone is the attitude in the words. It belongs to the speaker or writer. Mood is the feeling in the room. It belongs to the audience. PRATHER Diction creates tone. Tone plus events, staging, and what the audience knows creates mood."SORT IT "Sentence A: is 'threatening' the speaker's attitude or how you feel reading it?" Then the question you'll ask all day: "Whose feeling is that, the speaker's or the audience's?" PRATHER*LISTEN FOR Scholars can say it back: tone is the writer's attitude; mood is what the reader or audience feels. Students correctly sort the two rainstorm sentences by tone before reading begins. PRATHER*QUICK TOUR (10 sec) "Under the tool: three words that sound alike but judge Anne differently, and a word bank. Use the bank or a more precise word of your own. We'll need both in a minute."MOVE ON WHEN Most of the room can sort tone vs. mood out loud. Post both definitions; they stay up all period.TRANSITION (Slide 5) "At the end of this play, Anne's tone and the scene's mood pull in opposite directions on purpose. PRATHER Now we're about to get to the end of Anne's story, where her words are going to sound one way while the scene makes us feel something completely different."

PACKET PAGE 2 · MAP (OPEN, BUT DON'T WRITE YET)

WEEK 9 · DAY 2 · ENCOUNTERING EVIL · THE DIARY OF ANNE FRANK DAY 2

03 TONE AND MOOD MAP

Act II, Scenes 3–5 · pp. 766–778

EVIDENCE BANK

KEEP THIS PAGE · YOU NEED IT TOMORROW

For each moment, record precise tone words with the diction that proves them, mood words with the reason the audience feels them, and the gap between them. Each partner writes their own rows.

CHUNK 1 · news + hope · pp. 766–772 CHUNK 2 · fear + the final morning · pp. 772–777

Your tone word is a claim. The diction is your evidence. Column 4 is your reasoning.

MOMENT + PAGE	TONE WORD(S) + THE DICTION THAT PROVES IT	MOOD WORD(S) + WHY THE AUDIENCE FEELS IT	THE GAP: HOW TONE AND MOOD DIFFER HERE
M p. 778 · Anne's final voice-over: "In spite of everything, I still believe that people are really good at heart."	hopeful (or defiant): "In spite of everything," "still believe," "really good at heart"	devastating: Mr. Frank just told us Anne did not survive Belsen	Anne insists people are good; we just learned what people did to her. Her hope makes the loss hurt more.
SHOW YOUR THINKING · THINK FIRST, THEN SAY IT · P. 777
Mr. Frank: "It seems strange to say this, that anyone could be happy in a concentration camp. But Anne was happy in the camp in Holland where they first took us. After two years of being shut up in these rooms, she could be out... out in the sunshine and the fresh air that she loved."
FIRST I...	THEN I NOTICED...	SO I DECIDED...	BECAUSE...
2 CHUNK 1 p. 772 · Anne's voice-over right after the invasion news
3 CHUNK 2 pp. 774–775 · Anne comforts Peter in his room
4 CHUNK 2 p. 777 · Anne's voice-over as the door is broken down
★ STAR THE ROW WHERE TONE AND MOOD PULL HARDEST AGAINST EACH OTHER THE CONTRAST IS STRONGEST HERE BECAUSE...

WEEK 9 · DAY 2 · ENCOUNTERING EVIL · GRADE 8 ELA · MS. BRIGGS PAGE 2 OF 3

GET THEM HERE Play open to p. 777, finger on "Scene 5." Packet open to p. 2, pencils down.

SET CONTEXT (Slide 6, 60–90 sec, don't over-explain) "Here's what's left in the play. The hope of the invasion. The rising fear. The final morning. PRATHER You'll read those pages with your partner in a few minutes. But first, we're jumping to the very end, after the war. Remember the first scene: Mr. Frank came back to the annex alone, and Miep gave him the diary. We're back in that room."

READ ALOUD You read Scene 5, from "[It is again the afternoon in November, 1945...]" (p. 777) to the end (p. 778). Scholars follow with a finger. Slow down on Mr. Frank's "I know now." Then read Anne's voice-over: "In spite of everything, I still believe that people are really good at heart." PRATHER Then Mr. Frank: "She puts me to shame."

LET IT LAND Stop. Let the silence sit for a few seconds. The moment of silence after the final line is instructional, not sentimental. PRATHER Then, quietly: "Don't write yet." Pause. "What you are feeling right now is mood. Anne's words are tone. Hold both." PRATHER

ASK "What is Anne's attitude in those words?"

LISTEN FOR Hopeful, she still believes in people, she hasn't given up, she's strong.

ASK "What are we feeling, because we know what comes next?"

LISTEN FOR Heartbroken, devastated, crushed. Because Mr. Frank just told us she didn't survive Belsen. He came back alone.

IF INCOMPLETE Misconception 1, "Anne's tone is sad because the scene is sad": "Whose feeling is 'sad,' Anne's or ours? Show me Anne's actual words. What attitude do THEY reveal?"

MOVE ON WHEN The class can say Anne's attitude and the audience's feeling as two different things. If it's landing faster than 13 minutes, start the model early.

TRANSITION (Slide 7) "Hold onto both of those. Now I'm going to put that exact moment on the map. Watch my thinking."

PACKET PAGE 2 · ROW M · TEACHER INK = WHAT YOU WRITE

WEEK 9 · DAY 2 · ENCOUNTERING EVIL · THE DIARY OF ANNE FRANK

DAY 2

03 TONE AND MOOD MAP

Act II, Scenes 3–5 · pp. 766–778

EVIDENCE BANK

KEEP THIS PAGE · YOU NEED IT TOMORROW

For each moment, record precise tone words with the diction that proves them, mood words with the reason the audience feels them, and the gap between them. Each partner writes their own rows.

CHUNK 1 · news + hope · pp. 766–772 CHUNK 2 · fear + the final morning · pp. 772–777

Your tone word is a claim. The diction is your evidence. Column 4 is your reasoning.

MOMENT + PAGE	TONE WORD(S) + THE DICTION THAT PROVES IT	MOOD WORD(S) + WHY THE AUDIENCE FEELS IT	THE GAP: HOW TONE AND MOOD DIFFER HERE
M p. 778 · Anne's final voice-over: "In spite of everything, I still believe that people are really good at heart."	hopeful (or defiant): "In spite of everything," "still believe," "really good at heart"	devastating: Mr. Frank just told us Anne did not survive Belsen	Anne insists people are good; we just learned what people did to her. Her hope makes the loss hurt more.

SHOW YOUR THINKING · THINK FIRST, THEN SAY IT · P. 777

Mr. Frank: "It seems strange to say this, that anyone could be happy in a concentration camp. But Anne was happy in the camp in Holland where they first took us. After two years of being shut up in these rooms, she could be out... out in the sunshine and the fresh air that she loved."

	FIRST I...	THEN I NOTICED...	SO I DECIDED...	BECAUSE...
2	CHUNK 1 p. 772 · Anne's voice-over right after the invasion news
3	CHUNK 2 pp. 774–775 · Anne comforts Peter in his room
4	CHUNK 2 p. 777 · Anne's voice-over as the door is broken down

★ STAR THE ROW WHERE TONE AND MOOD PULL HARDEST AGAINST EACH OTHER
THE CONTRAST IS STRONGEST HERE BECAUSE...

WEEK 9 · DAY 2 · ENCOUNTERING EVIL · GRADE 8 ELA · MS. BRIGGS

PAGE 2 OF 3

GET THEM HERE Packet p. 2, Row M. Doc cam on your packet. Slide 7.

MODEL · 1–3

"First, the moment: Anne's final voice-over, page 778. That's already in Column 1. Second, I look at her actual diction: 'In spite of everything.' 'I still believe.' 'Really good at heart.' Third, I choose a tone word the diction can defend. Is Anne's tone hopeful, defiant, or naive? Those words share ground but judge her differently. PRATHER"

PRESS PRECISION

(point to the purple strip on p. 1) "Hopeful says she expects good. Defiant says she's refusing to give in. Naive says she doesn't see how bad it is. Each one makes a different judgment about Anne. 'In spite of everything' tells me she knows how bad it is, so I don't think naive fits best. 'Still believe' is hope, and 'in spite of' has some defiance in it. Choose the word you can defend from her diction. PRATHER I'm writing hopeful, or defiant."

QUICK ASK

"Could someone defend naive? What word would you point to?" Take one answer. If they tie it to diction ("really good at heart" after everything people did), it's defensible. Say so.

MODEL · 4–6

"Fourth, what does the audience know? Mr. Frank just told us she didn't survive. Fifth, the mood: devastating. Sixth, the gap: Anne insists people are good, and we just learned what people did to her. Her hope makes the loss hurt more. That last column is about the relationship, not a repeat."

SCHOLARS DO

Copy Row M as you write it (teacher ink at left). Word choice can be hopeful or defiant; the proof has to be diction.

CHECK

Every Row M has a tone word with quoted diction and a mood word with a reason.

MOVE ON WHEN

Row M is copied. About 4 minutes total. Keep it short; the scholar think-aloud is next.

TRANSITION

"That was my thinking. Now I want to hear yours. Purple strip, right under Row M."

PACKET PAGE 2 · SHOW YOUR THINKING

WEEK 9 · DAY 2 · ENCOUNTERING EVIL · THE DIARY OF ANNE FRANK

DAY 2

03 TONE AND MOOD MAP

Act II, Scenes 3–5 · pp. 766–778

EVIDENCE BANK

KEEP THIS PAGE · YOU NEED IT TOMORROW

For each moment, record precise tone words with the diction that proves them, mood words with the reason the audience feels them, and the gap between them. Each partner writes their own rows.

CHUNK 1 · news + hope · pp. 766–772 CHUNK 2 · fear + the final morning · pp. 772–777

Your tone word is a claim. The diction is your evidence. Column 4 is your reasoning.

MOMENT + PAGE	tone word(s) + the diction that proves it	mood word(s) + why the audience feels it	the gap: how tone and mood differ here
M p. 778 · Anne's final voice-over: "In spite of everything, I still believe that people are really good at heart."	hopeful (or defiant): "In spite of everything," "still believe," "really good at heart"	devastating: Mr. Frank just told us Anne did not survive Belsen	Anne insists people are good; we just learned what people did to her. Her hope makes the loss hurt more.

SHOW YOUR THINKING · THINK FIRST, THEN SAY IT · P. 777

Mr. Frank: "It seems strange to say this, that anyone could be happy in a concentration camp. But Anne was happy in the camp in Holland where they first took us. After two years of being shut up in these rooms, she could be out... out in the sunshine and the fresh air that she loved."

FIRST I...	THEN I NOTICED...	SO I DECIDED...	BECAUSE...
------------	-------------------	-----------------	------------

2	CHUNK 1 p. 772 · Anne's voice-over right after the invasion news
3	CHUNK 2 pp. 774–775 · Anne comforts Peter in his room
4	CHUNK 2 p. 777 · Anne's voice-over as the door is broken down

★ STAR THE ROW WHERE TONE AND MOOD PULL HARDEST AGAINST EACH OTHER
THE CONTRAST IS STRONGEST HERE BECAUSE...

WEEK 9 · DAY 2 · ENCOUNTERING EVIL · GRADE 8 ELA · MS. BRIGGS

PAGE 2 OF 3

Before class: think-aloud scholar _____ · backup _____

1 · GET THEM HERE Purple strip, p. 2. Slide 8. "Same scene, page 777. This time it's Mr. Frank talking. Read it with me." Read it aloud once.

2 · SILENT THINK "Don't write. Don't talk. Whose tone is this? What words jump out? What tone word can you defend? Thumb on your chest when you've got your 'First I...'" Wait the full 30–45 seconds. No cold call yet.

3 · SCHOLAR THINKS ALoud "[Name], talk us through how you chose your tone word. Start with 'First I...'"

LISTEN FOR "First I checked who's talking, and it's Mr. Frank, so it's his attitude. Then I noticed 'it seems strange to say this' and 'the sunshine and the fresh air that she loved.' So I decided his tone is tender, or bittersweet, because he's remembering what she loved, but he knows it sounds wrong to call a camp a happy place."

PRESS, DON'T ANSWER "What diction made you choose that?" · "Why that word instead of another one?" · "Whose feeling are you describing?" · "What does the audience know?" If they stall: "What did you notice first?" → "What part are you sure about?" Stay with the same scholar.

4 · SECOND SCHOLAR "Who can build on, revise, or challenge that reasoning?" Stem: "I agree / would revise that because _____. I noticed _____."

LISTEN FOR A revision that sorts tone and mood: "I'd revise that because 'happy' is his word, but it's not the mood. We feel heartbroken because we know where the camps led." → "That's precise. Whose feeling, and you proved it."

5 · RELEASE "Good. That is the process I want running in your head while you work: look at the words, decide whose feeling it is, and prove your choice." Release immediately.

MOVE ON WHEN 4:00 hard stop.

TRANSITION (Slide 9) "Partners. Chunk 1 starts on page 766. Rows 2 through 4. Go."

PACKET PAGE 2 · ROWS 2–4

WEEK 9 · DAY 2 · ENCOUNTERING EVIL · THE DIARY OF ANNE FRANK

DAY 2

03 TONE AND MOOD MAP

Act II, Scenes 3–5 · pp. 766–778

EVIDENCE BANK

KEEP THIS PAGE · YOU NEED IT TOMORROW

For each moment, record precise tone words with the diction that proves them, mood words with the reason the audience feels them, and the gap between them. Each partner writes their own rows.

CHUNK 1 · news + hope · pp. 766–772 CHUNK 2 · fear + the final morning · pp. 772–777

Your tone word is a claim. The diction is your evidence. Column 4 is your reasoning.

MOMENT + PAGE	TONE WORD(S) + THE DICTION THAT PROVES IT	MOOD WORD(S) + WHY THE AUDIENCE FEELS IT	THE GAP: HOW TONE AND MOOD DIFFER HERE
M p. 778 · Anne's final voice-over: "In spite of everything, I still believe that people are really good at heart."	hopeful (or defiant): "In spite of everything," "still believe," "really good at heart"	devastating: Mr. Frank just told us Anne did not survive Belsen	Anne insists people are good; we just learned what people did to her. Her hope makes the loss hurt more.

SHOW YOUR THINKING · THINK FIRST, THEN SAY IT · P. 777

Mr. Frank: "It seems strange to say this, that anyone could be happy in a concentration camp. But Anne was happy in the camp in Holland where they first took us. After two years of being shut up in these rooms, she could be out... out in the sunshine and the fresh air that she loved."

	FIRST I...	THEN I NOTICED...	SO I DECIDED...	BECAUSE...
2 CHUNK 1 p. 772 · Anne's voice-over right after the invasion news
3 CHUNK 2 pp. 774–775 · Anne comforts Peter in his room
4 CHUNK 2 p. 777 · Anne's voice-over as the door is broken down

★ STAR THE ROW WHERE TONE AND MOOD PULL HARDEST AGAINST EACH OTHER
THE CONTRAST IS STRONGEST HERE BECAUSE...

WEEK 9 · DAY 2 · ENCOUNTERING EVIL · GRADE 8 ELA · MS. BRIGGS

PAGE 2 OF 3

GET THEM HERE Seat partners. Play open to p. 766, Scene 3. Packet p. 2.

SAY WHILE DOING (60 sec, Slide 9) "Now you're reading what happened before that ending, and you already know how it ends. That's your audience knowledge. Chunk 1 is the news and the hope, pages 766 to 772. Chunk 2 is the fear and the final morning, 772 to the top of 777. I flagged the strongest moment for each row, so you're analyzing, not hunting. Talk it out together, but both of you write. Nobody is the recorder for the other person."

SCHOLARS DO Read in pairs, trading pages → stop at each flagged page → agree on the diction → each writes tone + diction, mood + why, and the gap.

PACE CALLS Say these out loud: 38 "You should be into Chunk 2." · 44 "Row 3 should be done." · 49 "Finish your sentence."

ROW 2 · p. 772 "We're all in much better spirits... I have a feeling that friends are coming. Who knows? Maybe I'll be back in school by fall. Ha, ha!" Tone: optimistic, playful, hopeful. Mood: uneasy, heartbreaking. We know from Scene 5 she never goes back to school.

ROW 3 · pp. 774–775 "Look, Peter, the sky... What a lovely, lovely day! Aren't the clouds beautiful?" Tone: hopeful, peaceful, tender. Mood: tense, ominous. The phone keeps ringing, no one came to work, "So we just wait here until we die," and it's August 4.

ROW 4 · p. 777 "Good-bye for a while... some day I hope..." and her voice stops abruptly. Tone: calm, hopeful, pleading. Mood: devastating. "For a while" against what we know, plus the crash and the silence.

ALSO ACCEPT Any moment the diction defends, including p. 776 ("I still believe, in spite of everything..." right before the cars) and Mr. Frank on p. 776 ("Now we can live in hope"). That one is his tone, so scholars should name him as the speaker.

DONE EARLY Track how sound cues and stage directions manufacture mood without any dialogue: PRATHER list three with pages (cars braking, the doorbell, pounding, "Auf machen!", the crash).

KEEP GOING Briggs Checks and misconceptions are on the next page.

PACKET PAGE 2 · ROWS 2–4

WEEK 9 · DAY 2 · ENCOUNTERING EVIL · THE DIARY OF ANNE FRANK DAY 2

03 TONE AND MOOD MAP
Act II, Scenes 3–5 · pp. 766–778 EVIDENCE BANK

KEEP THIS PAGE · YOU NEED IT TOMORROW

For each moment, record precise tone words with the diction that proves them, mood words with the reason the audience feels them, and the gap between them. Each partner writes their own rows.
CHUNK 1 · news + hope · pp. 766–772 CHUNK 2 · fear + the final morning · pp. 772–777
Your tone word is a claim. The diction is your evidence. Column 4 is your reasoning.

MOMENT + PAGE	TONE WORD(S) + THE DICTION THAT PROVES IT	MOOD WORD(S) + WHY THE AUDIENCE FEELS IT	THE GAP: HOW TONE AND MOOD DIFFER HERE
M p. 778 · Anne's final voice-over: "In spite of everything, I still believe that people are really good at heart."	hopeful (or defiant): "In spite of everything," "still believe," "really good at heart"	devastating: Mr. Frank just told us Anne did not survive Belsen	Anne insists people are good; we just learned what people did to her. Her hope makes the loss hurt more.
SHOW YOUR THINKING · THINK FIRST, THEN SAY IT · P. 777 Mr. Frank: "It seems strange to say this, that anyone could be happy in a concentration camp. But Anne was happy in the camp in Holland where they first took us. After two years of being shut up in these rooms, she could be out... out in the sunshine and the fresh air that she loved."
FIRST I...	THEN I NOTICED...	SO I DECIDED...	BECAUSE...
2 CHUNK 1 p. 772 · Anne's voice-over right after the invasion news
3 CHUNK 2 pp. 774–775 · Anne comforts Peter in his room
4 CHUNK 2 p. 777 · Anne's voice-over as the door is broken down

★ STAR THE ROW WHERE TONE AND MOOD PULL HARDEST AGAINST EACH OTHER
THE CONTRAST IS STRONGEST HERE BECAUSE...

WEEK 9 · DAY 2 · ENCOUNTERING EVIL · GRADE 8 ELA · MS. BRIGGS PAGE 2 OF 3

BRIGGS CHECK 1 Tone: "Whose feeling is that?"BRIGGS CHECK 2 Diction: "What exact word or phrase made you choose that tone?"BRIGGS CHECK 3 Mood: "What does the audience know or experience here?"BRIGGS CHECK 4 Contrast: "Why does that make the gap between Anne's tone and the mood stronger?"WHEN STUCK Don't explain first. "Talk me through how you got there." → "What did you notice first?" → "What part are you sure about?" → then clarify.MISCONCEPTION 1 Mood becomes tone → "You gave me the mood. I need Anne's attitude. Show me her actual words."MISCONCEPTION 2 "Hopeful" with no proof → "What exact word or phrase made you choose hopeful?" If they can't answer, the word isn't defended yet.MISCONCEPTION 3 Same word twice → "What is Anne expressing versus what is the audience feeling because of what we know?"MISCONCEPTION 4 Column 4 repeats → "The last column isn't asking you to name them again. It asks about the RELATIONSHIP. How do they pull against each other?"MISCONCEPTION 5 Good / bad / sad / happy → "Can we be more precise? What KIND of sad? What KIND of hopeful?" Point them to the word bank and the hopeful / defiant / naive strip.MOREHOUSE Same rows, same endpoint. If a pair stalls on Row 2, sit for one row: read the p. 772 voice-over together, then ask, "Whose words are these? Which word sounds the most like her attitude?" Let them say it before they write it, then release them to Chunk 2.MOVE ON WHEN Most scholars have Rows 2–3 and are into Row 4. Don't wait for every row to be perfect; the debrief is next.TRANSITION (Slide 10) "Pencils up for a second. Partners, put your maps side by side. We're picking one scene."

PACKET PAGE 2 · ★ STRONGEST CONTRAST

WEEK 9 · DAY 2 · ENCOUNTERING EVIL · THE DIARY OF ANNE FRANK

DAY 2

03 TONE AND MOOD MAP

Act II, Scenes 3–5 · pp. 766–778

EVIDENCE BANK

KEEP THIS PAGE · YOU NEED IT TOMORROW

For each moment, record precise tone words with the diction that proves them, mood words with the reason the audience feels them, and the gap between them. Each partner writes their own rows.

CHUNK 1 · news + hope · pp. 766–772 CHUNK 2 · fear + the final morning · pp. 772–777

Your tone word is a claim. The diction is your evidence. Column 4 is your reasoning.

MOMENT + PAGE	TONE WORD(S) + THE DICTION THAT PROVES IT	MOOD WORD(S) + WHY THE AUDIENCE FEELS IT	THE GAP: HOW TONE AND MOOD DIFFER HERE
M p. 778 · Anne's final voice-over: "In spite of everything, I still believe that people are really good at heart."	hopeful (or defiant): "In spite of everything," "still believe," "really good at heart"	devastating: Mr. Frank just told us Anne did not survive Belsen	Anne insists people are good; we just learned what people did to her. Her hope makes the loss hurt more.

SHOW YOUR THINKING · THINK FIRST, THEN SAY IT · P. 777

Mr. Frank: "It seems strange to say this, that anyone could be happy in a concentration camp. But Anne was happy in the camp in Holland where they first took us. After two years of being shut up in these rooms, she could be out... out in the sunshine and the fresh air that she loved."

	FIRST I...	THEN I NOTICED...	SO I DECIDED...	BECAUSE...
2	CHUNK 1 p. 772 · Anne's voice-over right after the invasion news
3	CHUNK 2 pp. 774–775 · Anne comforts Peter in his room
4	CHUNK 2 p. 777 · Anne's voice-over as the door is broken down

★ STAR THE ROW WHERE TONE AND MOOD PULL HARDEST AGAINST EACH OTHER
THE CONTRAST IS STRONGEST HERE BECAUSE...

WEEK 9 · DAY 2 · ENCOUNTERING EVIL · GRADE 8 ELA · MS. BRIGGS

PAGE 2 OF 3

SAY WHILE DOING

"Compare your maps. Agree on the one scene where tone and mood pull hardest against each other. Star it. Then each of you writes: 'The contrast is strongest here because...' Two minutes."

SCHOLARS DO

Compare, agree, star one row, write the sentence (each scholar writes).

CHECK

Starred scenes come with a reason, not just a page number.

PRATHER

SHARE

Take 2–3 pairs. "Which row, and why is the contrast strongest there?" Chart each under the scene name.

LISTEN FOR

A reason tied to audience knowledge: "p. 777, because she says good-bye 'for a while' and we know she never comes back."

ASK

"What is this contrast doing to us as an audience? What might the playwrights want it to build?"

PRATHER

LISTEN FOR

It makes it hurt more · it makes us admire her · it makes us angry at what people did · it makes us think about whether she was right.

PARK IT

Write each idea under THEME on the board, word for word. Don't judge or rank them.

IF THEY JUMP

Misconception 6, "Never give up": "That sounds like advice. We are not solving theme yet. First prove what the contrast is doing."

SAY

"Don't solve theme yet. We're collecting the evidence first. Hold onto that. We're using it again tomorrow. That's why page 2 says keep this page." Tomorrow's Mojo task asks exactly how the tone-mood contrast develops theme; today ends with the question deliberately open.

PRATHER

MOVE ON WHEN

Three ideas are on the THEME board, or 55:00, whichever comes first.

TRANSITION

(Slide 11) "When you write about this tomorrow, you'll have to connect ideas that pull against each other. So let's get the tools for that. Page 3."

PACKET PAGE 3 · BOX 04 · TEACHER INK = ONE STRONG ANSWER

WEEK 9 · DAY 2 · ENCOUNTERING EVIL · THE DIARY OF ANNE FRANK

DAY 2

04

TRANSITIONS SHOW HOW IDEAS CONNECT

Choose a transition because it tells the reader how two ideas are connected, not because it sounds academic.

CONTRAST

however · in contrast · yet

CAUSE + EFFECT

because of this · as a result

ADDITION

in addition · furthermore

EMPHASIS

in fact · most importantly

PUNCTUATION: When a transition starts a sentence, put a comma after it. However, the danger grows. · WATCH OUT: Don't use a contrast transition between two ideas that actually agree.For each pair, fill in the bubble for the relationship, write the best transition, and explain why it fits.1. Idea 1: The families hear that the invasion has finally begun. Idea 2: They quietly celebrate in the annex.☐ contrast ☐ cause/effect ☐ addition ☐ emphasisBEST TRANSITION As a result, WHY *The celebration happens because of the news.2. Idea 1: They quietly celebrate in the annex. Idea 2: A thief has heard sounds above the warehouse.☐ contrast ☐ cause/effect ☐ addition ☐ emphasisBEST TRANSITION However, WHY *Their happiness is set against new danger.3. Idea 1: Their hiding place may no longer be a secret. Idea 2: Anne keeps writing in her diary.☐ contrast ☐ cause/effect ☐ addition ☐ emphasisBEST TRANSITION Yet WHY Anne keeps going even though the danger grows.

CUT OR FOLD HERE · EXIT TICKET · ON YOUR OWN

05 · EXIT TICKET

NAME

IN HER FINAL VOICE-OVER, ANNE'S TONE IS _____ BECAUSE HER WORDS...

THE MOOD OF THE SCENE IS _____ BECAUSE THE AUDIENCE KNOWS...

THIS CONTRAST MAKES ME THINK THE PLAY'S THEME MIGHT BE...

WEEK 9 · DAY 2 · ENCOUNTERING EVIL · GRADE 8 ELA · MS. BRIGGS

PAGE 3 OF 3

GET THEM HERE Packet p. 3. Slide 11 shows Prather's choppy paragraph.

MINI-LESSON · 3 MIN

Read Prather's paragraph aloud. "What makes it hard to follow?" PRATHER Listen for: it's choppy, it jumps, you can't tell how the ideas connect. "Transitions show the logical relationship between ideas. Four families." Point to each. "Do not choose a transition because it sounds academic. Choose it because it tells the reader how the two ideas are connected. And when it starts a sentence, comma after it."

MODEL ITEM 1 · 2 MIN

"Idea 1: the invasion has begun. Idea 2: they celebrate. Do these ideas fight each other? No. The celebration happens because of the news. So that's cause and effect: 'As a result,' with a comma. If I wrote 'However' here, I'd be telling you these two ideas disagree, and they don't. A misused 'however' between two agreeing sentences is the error to hunt for."

PRATHER

WRITE / WORK · 3 MIN

Scholars do Items 2 and 3 on their own: bubble, best transition, why.

CHECK

Item 2 should be contrast (they celebrate / danger is coming). Item 3 should be contrast (danger grows / Anne keeps writing). Every why names the relationship, not "it sounds good."

GO OVER IT · 3 MIN

"Item 2. Which family, and why?" Then: "Someone who chose a different one, defend it."

LISTEN FOR

"Contrast, because they're happy but there's new danger." For Item 3, "Yet" or "However," because Anne keeps writing even though the hiding place might be found.

IF INCOMPLETE

"Read me both ideas out loud. Do they agree, or pull against each other? Does one cause the other?"

MOVE ON WHEN

66:00. If you're behind, model Item 1, do Item 2 together, skip Item 3. The exit ticket is not negotiable.

TRANSITION

(Slide 12) "Pencils down. Find the dashed line on page 3. Exit ticket. On your own. This is how I know you're ready for tomorrow."

PACKET PAGE 3 · EXIT TICKET

WEEK 9 · DAY 2 · ENCOUNTERING EVIL · THE DIARY OF ANNE FRANK

DAY 2

04

TRANSITIONS SHOW HOW IDEAS CONNECT

Choose a transition because it tells the reader how two ideas are connected, not because it sounds academic.

CONTRAST

however · in contrast · yet

CAUSE + EFFECT

because of this · as a result

ADDITION

in addition · furthermore

EMPHASIS

in fact · most importantly

PUNCTUATION: When a transition starts a sentence, put a comma after it. However, the danger grows. · WATCH OUT: Don't use a contrast transition between two ideas that actually agree.For each pair, fill in the bubble for the relationship, write the best transition, and explain why it fits.1. Idea 1: The families hear that the invasion has finally begun. Idea 2: They quietly celebrate in the annex.☐ contrast ☐ cause/effect ☐ addition ☐ emphasisBEST
TRANSITION

As a result,

WHY

The celebration happens because of the news.

2. Idea 1: They quietly celebrate in the annex. Idea 2: A thief has heard sounds above the warehouse.☐ contrast ☐ cause/effect ☐ addition ☐ emphasisBEST
TRANSITION

However,

WHY

Their happiness is set against new danger.

3. Idea 1: Their hiding place may no longer be a secret. Idea 2: Anne keeps writing in her diary.☐ contrast ☐ cause/effect ☐ addition ☐ emphasisBEST
TRANSITION

Yet

WHY

Anne keeps going even though the danger grows.

CUT OR FOLD HERE · EXIT TICKET · ON YOUR OWN

05 · EXIT TICKET

NAME

IN HER FINAL VOICE-OVER, ANNE'S TONE IS _____ BECAUSE HER WORDS...

THE MOOD OF THE SCENE IS _____ BECAUSE THE AUDIENCE KNOWS...

THIS CONTRAST MAKES ME THINK THE PLAY'S THEME MIGHT BE...

SAY WHILE DOING

"Three sentences, all about the final voice-over. Tone is Anne's. Mood is ours. Theme is just your best guess today. Silent, on your own. Eight minutes."

SCHOLARS DO

Complete the exit ticket alone. Map on p. 2 can stay open; no partner talk.

CHECK

Don't coach the answers. You're only checking that pencils are moving.

LOOK FOR

Exit tickets keep tone anchored to Anne's words and mood anchored to audience knowledge. PRATHER Tone: hopeful or defiant because "in spite of everything," "still believe." Mood: devastating because the audience knows she didn't survive. Theme guess: an arguable idea about life, not a plot summary.PRATHER74-80 · THEME GUESSESCold call 2 students for their theme guess only. Do not confirm or correct; write all guesses on the THEME board. PRATHER

PREVIEW DAY 3

"Tomorrow, Course Mojo asks you the exact question we have been circling: how does this contrast develop the theme of the play? Your map is your evidence bank. We will be using this tomorrow." PRATHER

COLLECT

Exit tickets only. Page 2 stays with scholars (folders) or you collect packets and hand them back on Day 3. Either way, the map can't go in the recycling.

SORT TONIGHT

Three piles: distinction solid, distinction shaky, distinction absent.

PRATHER

The shaky and absent piles are your partner plan for tomorrow's Mojo session.

HOMEWORK ·
OPTIONALChoose one (Slide 12): (a) "Which word best describes Anne's final tone: hopeful, defiant, or naive? Defend your choice with one piece of diction from the final scene. Use one logical transition correctly." or (b) Prather's full choppy-paragraph rewrite with three transitions from two families, peer review at the start of Day 3.

IF YOU'RE BEHIND

Cut the cold calls and the preview. The exit ticket always happens.